Provider Self-Care Panel – Conference Hall 1108

Self-Care refers to the practices that we deliberately and regularly engage in to maintain and enhance our health and well-being. Self-care is particularly important in the homeless services field. This panel discussion will explore the critical need for self-care, commonly seen obstacles to self-care, items for consideration in creating a self-care plan, and the process of building a culture of self-care within an organization. Ultimately, this panel discussion should allow you to reflect on your role in promoting self-care in yourself as well as your team/program/agency.
